

Title: Implementing AI in Finnish healthcare – national initiatives and local experiences

Speaker: Jarmo Reponen, Professor, University of Oulu, Finland

Presentation of the talk:

The presenter will provide an overview of the current AI development in Finnish healthcare and published results of the various local experiences aiming for streamlining patient visits and service processes.

Presentation of the speaker:

Jarmo Reponen is a professor in Healthcare Information Systems. His research focuses on assessment of health information systems, their availability, use and user experience. He has contributed to research in e-Health, teleradiology, telemedicine, AI and machine learning in radiology, mobile communication, and more recently in health technology assessment (HTA) for digital health applications.